About the Bucks County Historical Society

The Bucks County Historical Society (BCHS), a private nonprofit organization, operates both the Mercer and Fonthill Museums in Doylestown. As the County Historical Society, it is charged with collecting, preserving and interpreting the rich history and culture of Bucks County and the Delaware Valley region. As the primary inheritor of the material and intellectual legacy of Henry C. Mercer, the BCHS is custodian of a regionally and nationally significant collection of tools and artifacts that illuminate the history of pre-industrial America to c. 1850. The museums are accredited by the American Association of Museums.
